CROMER

Just a 10-15 minutes drive from Tinsmith's House, well worth a visit to this traditional seaside resort with its safe sandy beach. There's a victorian pier and narrow Georgian streets with nooks and crannies, not to mention the crabs!

We SEA.

MUNDESLEY

Mundesley is considered one of Norfolk's finest beaches, long and sandy with safe swimming at low tide and all the charm of a slightly run down English seaside village. The beach is backed by a promenade lined with colourful beach huts.

The beach is on the Poppy Trail and is adjacent to an Area of Natural Beauty. County "Quiet Lanes" project gives access to the coast for walkers, cyclists and horse riders.

HAPPISBURGH

Pronounced "Haze-bruh". A postcard perfect lighthouse sits above a wonderful wide sandy beach. It is a dramatic destination. Great for walkers. Footprints of the earliest humans in Northern Europe were discovered here not long ago, evidence of the land link between Britain and mainland Europe.

SEA PALLING

Sea Palling is a blue-flag stretch of yellow sand backed by dunes and with occasional outcrops of large grey boulders and fine shingle. There are a series of manmade reefs lying just off shore. This sea defence scheme was designed to protect the coastal strip from flooding and helps calm the water making it good for swimming (the area is zoned in summer). Unfortunately it does attract jet skiers, however, it is also good for canoeists and windsurfers too.

WAXHAM

One of the few beaches that not many people know about making it all the more intriguing and a real joy. Beautifully hidden away amongst trees and sand dunes, with no regular car park and no amenities – a Norfolk gem!

Waxham, just to the south of Sea Palling, is a continuation of beautiful yellow sand but quieter than its neighbour, with seals often seen basking on the shore. Behind the marram grass-topped dunes is a small village with historic 16th-century barn (now restored and open to the public with a café serving light lunches). There are few facilities - it's a place to bring a picnic for a day on the beach or for a bracing walk.

WINTERTON

Winterton beach has the wonderful advantage of a vast expanse of soft sand which is backed onto by the rolling dunes of the National Nature Reserve.

The stretch of grassy dunes gives a lovely uncrowded and open feel to it. You can spread yourself out without being on top of other people. There is a good beachside cafe selling cold drinks and British cafe standards. During the summer season weekends it does get busier. However the beach never feels frantic. There is plenty of space and it doesn't get nearly as crowded as Hemsby, or Great Yarmouth.

Parking is easy (for a small charge), there is a large grassy car park at the top of the beach and it's only a short walk to reach the sea. Top beach.
